

Initial Situation

How can costs and expenses for energy can be reduced? What opportunities and risks exist in increasingly volatile energy markets? There are complex issues that companies need to address now as well as in the future.

A reduction in the intricacy and answers to these questions provides acteno Energy.

We support companies, property managers and public institutions as well, managing and optimizing their energy processing

Your Move to Acteno!

With a move to acteno energy our customers get access to all efficiency applications, which contribute to permanently reduce energy-related consumption costs and outlay. These applications enable our customers to gain transparency of their energy usage across the boundaries of individual networks regardless of suppliers and network operators.

Designed for industrial and commercial customers we act independently in the energy market and network-wide work without any conflicts of interest, offer our customers responses to them, as it is economically and their long-term energy security. Our network-independent service, which is designed for industrial and commercial customers alike, leads to no conflict of interest, and provides you the know-how to establish a sustainable and secure energy management scheme. With these services we are an indispensable link in an increasingly volatile and complex energy market.
